Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THERE is another kind of bimetalism, entirely apart from the money question, which has disturbed the peace of the world for thousands of years—the battle of gold and iron. Japan today served notice on the United States that while her national wealth in gold is insignificant compared to ours, she will have by 1936 more iron ships in the fighting line than we have.

January Business on Upgrade, Says St. Louis Reserve

Eighth Federal Reserve District Sees "Decided Improvement"

INCREASING STOCKS

Merchants Repurchasing After Fine Retail Sales in December

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—A "decided improvement" in business and sentiment in the Eighth Federal Reserve district was noted Wednesday in the monthly report of the St. Louis Federal Reserve bank, for December and part of January.

The report said both retail and wholesale business appeared to be in the most favorable condition since last summer.

"In industry, seasonal influences making for curtailment of activities were less in evidence than a year and two years earlier, and in certain lines were conspicuously absent," the report said.

December Summary
Department store sales for December were 15.9 per cent greater than in December 1932, and 52.8 per cent more than in November 1933. In boots and shoes the sales were 28 per cent greater than in December 1932, while sport and irregular clothing sales brought last month's average below that of 1932.

Other increases in sales in December 1933, over the same month a year previous were: chemicals, 25 per cent; dry goods nearly 25 per cent; electrical supplies, about 58 per cent.

Stocking Up Again
"Since January 1 there has been a well defined disposition to replenish, reflected in orders placed with producers and wholesalers and jobbing interests. In all lines of business investigated, except clothing, the volume of December business was in excess of that during the same period in 1932 and in a number of instances greater than in December 1931."

Freight traffic of railroads declined in December in other years and in the St. Louis terminal railway, handling interchanges for 29 connecting lines, interchanges for 61,253 loads in December, compared with 64,884 loads in November and 59,513 in December 1932.

Estimated tonnage of the federal barge line between St. Louis and New Orleans in December was 105,700 tons, against 97,457 tons in November and 93,766 tons in December, 1932.

One Is Released in Factor Kidnap Case

Rest of Touhy Gang Face Accuser in Chicago Court

CHICAGO—(AP)—One defendant was released Tuesday as the prosecution finished the evidence on which it hopes to send the other three to the electric chair for the kidnapping of John Factor.

Sixty-year-old Edward (Father Tom) McFadden walked out of court a free man after Judge Michael Feinberg granted a motion by Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley to nolle prosequi charges against him.

Testimony against the three remaining defendants—Roger Touhy, Gustav Schaefer and Albert Kator—includes a direct accusation by Factor from the witness stand that he glimpsed their faces during his imprisonment.

Immediately after the state rested its case and McFadden was freed, Judge Feinberg adjourned court until 10 a. m. Wednesday at which time the defense starts.

Naval Minister Makes Significant Answer to Parliament

UP TO TREATY RATIO

Japan Builds to Limit While American Defense Lags

TOKYO, Japan—(AP)—Admiral Mineo Osumi, minister of the navy, stated to the House of Representatives Wednesday that Japan's strength in cruisers, destroyers and submarines under the treaty age-limits will be slightly superior to that of the United States at the end of 1936.

The admiral's statement was presented in writing in response to persistent questioning by representatives on the relative sea power of Japan and America.

The admiral did not mention the navy of Great Britain or any other power but confined himself to a comparison of the Japanese and American navies at the end of 1936 when the present naval treaties may possibly expire.

The naval treaties establish a maximum ratio of 5 for Great Britain, 5 for the United States, and 3 for Japan—but Japan is the only nation that built up to her ratio maximum.

President Gets to Work Upon Dollar

Senate Committee Votes to Rebate PaPrt of Cut February 1

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Armed at last with the power he sought, President Roosevelt left Congress Wednesday to simmer in disputes over appropriations and the St. Lawrence hydro-power and navigation treaty while he set about to formally devalue the dollar.

His monetary lieutenants were called into conference late Wednesday afternoon.

The senate was still plodding along on the waterway pace with Canada, and the house peeked into the latest supply bill that will pass without trouble in a day or so. This was for the Departments of State, Justice, Commerce and Labor, carrying an appropriation of nearly 91 million dollars, which was 14 millions under the current appropriation.

All except 2 million of this saving is estimated due to the repeal of prohibition and its enforcement expense.

Would Restore Pay Cut
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate appropriations subcommittee considering the independent officers bill Wednesday voted to restore one-third of the 15 per cent federal pay cut, effective February 1, and another third next July.

The teachers and officers will have their regular study hour at 7 o'clock, and will continue Dr. Robertson's "Studies in the New Testament." Mrs. Gus Haynes will teach the class Wednesday.

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—The Mississippi senate Wednesday defeated the Roberts hard-liquor bill 29 to 18.

Happiest Birthday Ever, Says F. D. R.

Gives Greetings to Nation, and Extends Hope to the Paralyzed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's speech Tuesday night to the groups celebrating his birthday anniversary follows:

"Tonight I am very deeply moved by the choice of my birthday anniversary for the holding of birthday balls in so many communities, great and small throughout the country. I send you my greetings and my heartfelt thanks, but at the same time I feel that I have the right to speak to you even more as the representative on this occasion of the hundreds of thousands of crippled children in our country."

"It is only in recent years that we have come to realize the true significance of the problem of our crippled children. There are so many more of them than we had any idea of; in many sections there are thousands who are not only receiving no help but whose very existence has been unknown to the doctors and health services."

"A generation ago somewhat the same situation existed in relation to tuberculosis. Today, because of constant stressing of the subject, the nation understands the tuberculosis problem and has taken splendid steps, not only to efface cures but also to prevent spread of the disease."

"The problem of the crippled child is very similar. Modern medical science has advanced so far that a very large proportion of children who for one reason or another have become crippled can be restored to useful citizenship. It remains, therefore, only to spread the gospel for the cure and cure of crippled children in every part of this kindly land to enable us to make the same relative progress that we have already made in the field of tuberculosis."

"As all of you know, the work at Warm Springs has been close to my heart, because of the many hundreds of cases of infantile paralysis which have been treated there. It is a fact that infantile paralysis results in the crippling of children and of grown-ups more than any other cause. Warm Springs is only one of the many places where kindness and patience and skill are given to handicapped people. There are hundreds of other places, hospitals and clinics, where the surgeons, doctors and nurses of the country gladly work day in and day out throughout the year, often without compensation."

"Warm Springs, through the generous gifts which are being made to the foundation tonight, will be able to increase its usefulness nationally, especially in the field of infantile paralysis. We shall be able to take more people and I hope that these people will be able to come to us on the recommendation of doctors from every state in the union. I want to stress, however, that the problem of the crippled child is so great that in every community and in every state the local facilities for caring for the crippled need the support and the interest of every citizen. Let us well remember that every child and indeed every person who is restored to useful citizenship is an asset to the country and is enabled to pull his own weight in the boat. In the long run, by helping this work we are not contributing to charity but we are contributing to the building up of a sound nation."

"At Warm Springs the facilities are available, insofar as beds and funds permit, to the rich and to the poor."

"The fund to which you contribute tonight will undoubtedly permit us to extend the facilities of Warm Springs in a greater degree than before. I like to think and I would like each one of you who hears me to remember that what you are doing means the enriching of the life of some crippled child. I know and you know that there could be no finer purpose than our will to aid these helpless little ones."

Expresses Deep Gratitude
"Today so many thousands of welcome telegrams and postcards and letters of birthday greetings have poured in on me in the White House that I want to take this opportunity of

Refunding Bill Is O. K'd by Creditors

New York Committee Accepts Law to Pay Off Old Warrants

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The Arkansas Bondholders Protective association, meeting in New York Wednesday, unanimously accepted the terms of the 1934 Arkansas bond refunding law, Grover T. Owens, Arkansas counsel for the committee, announced at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

This virtually means completion of Arkansas' long struggle to arrange her 135-million-dollar highway debt on a payable basis. The New York committee represented the holders of the 80-million-dollar direct Martineau issue for new highways built since 1927.

The representatives of old road improvement district bondholders are in session at St. Louis Wednesday.

By HENRY N. DORRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The signature of Governor Futrell to the bond refunding bill may prove to be the magic touch that will send $1,665,000 immediately into Arkansas channels of trade.

Out of the $2,434,120.50 to the credit of the bond refunding as of last December 31 will be disbursed money to pay half the $2,000,000 claims of contractors, and nearly $7,000,000 more with which to cash old maintenance and salary warrants which have been floating around since the beginning of 1933.

The governor's signature on the bill will put it into effect, and the holders of bonds to be refunded have agreed to dismiss a suit in federal court under which all highway funds except those going for road maintenance have been impounded.

If and when the bill is signed and the money released from the court order, State Treasurer Roy V. Leont and stands ready to disburse it on proper warrants.

The $20,881.70 appropriated for payment of maintenance warrants will find its way into the pockets of countless thousands of filling station operators, day labor maintenance men, oil companies which furnished supplies to the highway department, and banks which have cashed and held the warrants.

Practically all of them were issued in 1931 and 1932 by one highway department after contracts had been let and money ran out.

Likewise, employees of the highway department—engineers, clerks, stenographers and mechanics—will receive $44,231.41 in salaries for which they were given warrants in 1932 on which no cash could be realized.

The bond refunding board estimates there are approximately $2,000,000 of contractors claims outstanding. An appropriation was made to pay half in cash, the other half to be refunded with notes bearing three per cent interest and maturing in 20 years.

In addition to the cash disbursements for these claims and warrants, the state will receive other benefits as a result of confessions made by the bondholders.

Evidence of 67,585-Foot Ascent Destroyed by Accident

MOSCOW, Russia—(AP)—All three members of the Soviet stratosphere balloon were killed between 3 and 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, it was learned here Wednesday.

The disaster occurred several hundred kilometers (a kilometer is five-eighths of a mile) southeast of here near the village of Potliskoyostrog. It was announced officially Wednesday after 24 hours of unconfirmed reports and rumors while the search went on for the fliers who Tuesday reported they had reached an altitude of 67,585 feet and were preparing to descend.

The gondola tore loose from the balloon in a hard landing in which the crew, comprising Pavil Fedoseenko, Andrey Vassenko and Ilya Uysyskin, were killed.

The scientific instruments aboard the gondola were destroyed.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Highball? Rubber Tire or Coal Tar? Fur Flew in Louisiana Quiz Federal Pay Cut Is Big Issue in Capital Cemetery and Circus Codes.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—You may be drinking a distillate of old rubber tires, but you probably wouldn't know it. That's one of the problems of Federal Alcohol Control Administration, pondering in connection with its hearings on labeling of whisky.

The rubber tires won't hurt you. The alcohol made out of them is just as pure as alcohol from grain. The question is whether proper consumer protection standards demand that when a rectifier mixes alcohol of that type with whisky the rectified blend should bear the words "rubber tires."

Gasoline and coal tar also can be made into alcohol. The FACA doesn't think you'd drink that knowingly, either. You'd prefer alcohol made from grain, molasses, or even potatoes.

Rectifiers just don't see any sense in such labeling. Rubber tire, gasoline and coal tar alcohol are much cheaper than grain alcohol and the rectifiers prefer cheap alcohol.

So long as the chemist can't tell what the alcohol was made from, they ask, what's the difference?

Louisiana Quiz No Picnic

The famous "battle of New Orleans" was no picnic, says Senator Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the committee which investigated the Huey Long election of Senator Overton. Reporting to the Senate and describing the bitterness of Louisiana political factionalism at the hearings, Connally says:

"That resulted in this committee being harassed and annoyed during its proceedings by howling groups. When one witness would testify favorably to one faction, half the audience would give a great yell."

Pay Cut Is Big Issue

Big news breaks here almost daily. Sometimes it may be important enough to change the course of history. But you can be sure that Washington's local newspapers will devote their top headlines to an issue which interests more citizens here than any other, though it attracts little attention outside.

Restoration of the 15 per cent federal salary cut is that issue. Government work is the city's one big industry and federal pay roll is all-important locally. Washington didn't feel the depression until the pay cut came along in the economy act.

Hope of the 75,000 federal employees in Washington and 515,000 others outside—have been going up and down for weeks, as the agitation proceeded. President Roosevelt—basing his decision on a cost of living survey, as the law provides—said the cut would be reduced from 15 to 10 per cent next July.

But agitation has continued and, if the president doesn't take a definite stand in opposition, Congress is likely to take a more immediate step for restoration.

Organized labor has lobbied for the employees, but the restoration campaign has been helped along principally by the agitation for more money for veterans, whose compensations also were reduced in the economy act.

Circuses and Cemeteries

Circuses and cemeteries recently had their NRA code hearings.

Capt. Billy Schultz, world champion lion tamer, urged a licensing system which would prevent promoters from taking performers and animals out on the road on a shoe-string and leaving them stranded after going broke.

The circus business was revealed to be in a bad way. Only three railroad-traveling circuses and 21 motorized circuses went on the road last year. Eleven railroad circuses and 21 other motorized outfits were laid up.

Fiery battle broke out at the cemetery code hearing over alleged racketeering in memorial park lots sold for speculation.

Protect Children Well on Windy Days

—Blowby Weather May Bring Ear and Throat Infections

The wind is blowing today in long, wild, fitful gusts, but the sun is out and the air smells of spring. Saturday, it happens to be, and the children are out in herds.

I rather imagine mothers are saying to themselves, "Thank goodness! At last here's a day I need not worry." They are thinking of the dark bitter mornings past when off to school, days when it didn't seem fit for a dog to be out.

Yet it is remarkable how little trouble results from these cold winds if a child is well and properly dressed.

Protection Against Wind

In the first place he goes straight from one place to another. There is no sitting around on stone steps or lying on damp ground, little time for hard exercising, getting all overheated and then sitting down in the chill air to cool off. When the weather is out in herds.

It is on play-days, and in the hour after school when the bars are down and the children are on their own that things happen.

They are out and in, go about with coats unbuttoned and caps off, or ear-taps up, and sit about on stone steps or walls, or on damp ground with frost only a few inches down. If they get hot running or skating they take their sweaters off.

On a windy day I begin to worry about ears. A child will keep his ears covered on a cold day, but when the sun is out and the weather warm he either takes off his cap or ties up the tabs. Whatever kind he wears he sure he's going to get his ears out of bondage.

Guard Vulnerable Spots

And this is exactly what he should not do on gusty days like today. They are tender from long confinement and susceptible to trouble. When I speak to ears, I mean, of course, the whole ear region, not the external shell. Throats too, and chests. Any part of the body that has been coddled and bundled cannot suddenly be exposed to strong wind.

Of course we know that most throat and ear diseases are caused by germs. Throat infections, for instance, have a way of going for ears too when the patient seems to be on the mend.

Perhaps the wind itself may be innocent enough but there is a mysterious affinity between weather and body conditions that encourages germ parents to propagate and damp fire should be added to that.

"Gusty" wind, will occur every so often between now and the end of March. They will make trouble if we are not on our guard and the children on theirs. Let them play outside unless they are just over a sick spell, but be sure that vulnerable spots are shielded.

And don't let any convalescent child go out too soon—no matter what the weather.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

©1933 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

The growing popularity of Mexican-inspired hats and clothes for southern wear as well as for town costumes necessitates a different technique in makeup.

The same powder and rouge worn with dark winter costumes won't be at all flattering if you're wearing an outfit that is bright red, yellow or some other vivid hue.

Since tawny orange shades are predominant in Mexican clothes, cosmetics to wear with them should have underlying orange tones. More rouge and lipstick will be needed if you are going to take the new Mexican colors seriously.

Your foundation is all important. Instead of choosing a pure white foundation cream or lotion, get one which has orangish rachel tones in it. That will give your skin a healthy, tanned look such as native Mexicans have. Then you are ready for rouge.

A new cream rouge on the market was made primarily to wear with Mexican-inspired fashions. It has red geranium lights in it and gives your cheeks a ruddy glow. Matching a lipstick, in that same red geranium hue, brings out the best in your face as well as in your ensemble.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CEPEY MOORE and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as LILA HOTLAND and DEREK BLISS, but Lila expects to live in luxury while Gypsy keeps her job teaching in a settlement school.

Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. Another problem is Tom's jealousy of wealthy MARK BOURGHTON who once asked Gypsy to marry him and whom they met at the Blisses' home. When the doctor tells Gypsy she is to have a baby she gives up her job. Summer comes on and is intensely hot. Gypsy and Tom move to a cottage on Long Island owned by a friend.

The baby is born in September and christened DAVID. Caring for him and for her home exhausts Gypsy. One night when Tom is determined at the office and she is depressed by loneliness, HUNT GIBSON calls. Gibson is an engineer whom she met shortly after her marriage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV

DEREK said, "We haven't had a quiet evening at home for weeks." He said, "I'm tired of this everlasting merry-go-round. Let's cut some of it."

Lila frowned, the expression creasing her smooth white forehead into unbecoming ridges. And she did so hate to frown! But Derek was being tiresome. What else was there to do besides what they already did?

"Don't be stupid," she said airily. She was sitting at her dressing table, a sheer lace and satin jacket thrown on over her fitted creamy slip. Her stockings were sheer; her sandals were fashioned of gilded straps. Her yellow hair was smooth as satin except where it sprang, just below the temple, into two deep, adroit waves. "Don't be idiotic, darling," she said, arching her neck to enjoy the lovely line in the mirror. "Anyone'd think you were 50 and goutish. It's a lovely party tonight."

"It's always a lovely party," Derek told her, looking more annoyed than ever. "And what happens? We dine, dance with the same people, see the same plays, laugh at the same deadly jokes. Jove, sometimes I feel as if I were on one of those Coney Island ferris wheels and couldn't get off."

"Well, that's perfectly silly of you, and I don't know what you're talking about." Usually when she talked like this Lila disposed of her husband's "mish" moods. Tonight he was different.

"It's this beastly way of living," he complained. "In a rabbit warren, with all the rest of the animals. Now if we had a house in the country and a couple of children..."

"A couple! I like that!" Lila, offended by the thought of even one baby, allowed her tinkling laugh to sound at this preposterous notion.

"I'd like a house, a more simple, solid way of living," Derek said stubbornly. "I'd like kids. Wouldn't you?"

Lila threw out her hands. "Of course, darling," she agreed. All sweet reasonableness. "Of course. But later. Not now. We're young! We must amuse ourselves. In five years..."

In ten, perhaps. Lila had seen him in this mood once or twice before. He was not to be budged.

"I'm not going tonight, anyway," he said. "I've got a beastly cold. Been feeling rotten all day. And I have a heavy morning with a client tomorrow."

SHE stared at him, eyes narrowed. "Oh, very well, then!" She turned back to her dressing table. Derek's eyes lighted with triumph. It wasn't often Lila was so amenable. She was sweet, really. He wanted to put his arms around her, to bury his face in the softness of her hair, to tell her all the pretty things she used to like to hear but was too busy to listen to nowadays.

But before he could say a word she reached for the white and gilt telephone on the low table beside her. She gave a number. Derek frowned, waited.

"That you, Marko? Yes, Lila, Derek's feeling seedy. You're going to the Martins tonight, aren't you? Well, be a lamb and drop by for me. Thanks so much. About 10."

She hung up. "That's that," she said gaily. "I wouldn't miss those Russian dancers for worlds. Rud along, darling. I told Koto dinner at eight and it's almost that now."

Derek stood up. He had got his way—that is, partly, and yet he wasn't satisfied. Of course it was perfectly all right for Lila to go to the Martin party with Marko. Why not? But he had so hoped she'd give the affair up for him. It was such a little thing to do.

Still nursing that sense of bafflement, of defeat, Derek went to his own room. He ran his hand over his chin. He must shave and change and, oh, God, he was so tired! What wouldn't he give for a bite by his own fire, a woman opposite him, with a quiet voice, in a dark gown? Lila scarcely ever wore dark things except for street wear. In the evening she was always slim, supple and perfumed, her hair exquisitely coiffed, her skin gleaming. She wore silver tissue and gilt, creamy lace. Soft fabrics rustled deliciously at her approach and soft scents lingered on the air.

Almost like a man in a daze, he dressed for dinner. The meal was, as always, perfectly served; the food piquant, delicious. But something was missing. Derek found himself muttering under his breath, "Better a dish of herbs where love is..." But he couldn't remember the rest.

"What did you say, darling?" Lila looked at him oddly.

"Nothing. Nothing." He pulled himself up with a start.

LATER he punctiliously pulled out her chair for her, waited while she preceded him into the dim drawing room and lighted her cigarette. Rain was falling over the city now, splashing against the windows in black rivulets. He shivered. The cold which had seized him earlier in the day took a firmer grip upon him. He felt ill...

Lila turned on the radio and the music sickened him. He must be definitely ill, he told himself savagely, to be in such a ghastly frame of mind. He tried to pull himself together, to be chatty and casual, but he felt his effort to be a decided failure.

For her part, Lila seemed not to notice and he was grateful. There was something to be said about Lila's determined effort to live on the surface of life. People like that—people who insisted on the gracious, the luxurious, in everything—were rather easy to live with if all you wanted was creature comfort, he thought. But with his whole soul he found himself longing for something beyond and apart from all these soft cushions, shaded lights and clinking glasses. He hoped he wasn't whining about being "misunderstood." No, his need was deeper and more fundamental than that. It had something to do with home... with the old-fashioned interpretation of the word.

"Home is where the heart is," Derek murmured, staring at his

"Only Yesterday" at the Saenger

John Boles, Margaret Sullivan Here Thursday and Friday

The entire resources of Universal studios were thrown behind the production of "Only Yesterday." John M. Stahl's absorbing love drama showing Thursday and Friday at the Saenger.

In the matter of cast alone, the picture enlisted the services of more than 100 players. Margaret Sullivan, John Boles, Billie Burke and Reginald Denry, and including also, Edna May Oliver, George Meeker, Benita Hume, Barry Norton, Barton Churchill, Franklin Pangborn, Marie Prevost, Robert McWade and actually scores of others, in addition to more than 4,500 extras.

More than three months were consumed in filming the picture, which abounds in lavish scenes, including a gay New Year's Eve celebration at the St. Regis Hotel in New York, Wall Street on the day of the great market crash, the wild frenzy of Armistice Day, the parade of the first contingent of soldiers up France, a pretentious ball at a Virginia country club and a New York cocktail party in which there are more than 30 speaking parts.

In spite of his panoramic splendor, the story of "Only Yesterday" is continually centered on the tragic love affair of Margaret Sullivan and John Boles. A story of heartbreak and courage unsurpassed in screen history.

Patmos to Play Emmet on Friday

Boys' and Girls' Teams Will Meet at Hope Armory

Beginning at 7:30 Friday night February 2, the Lady and Gentlemen Donkey Riders from Patmos, will play two games against the Emmet school basketball tossers, at the armory building in Hope.

The first tilt, which will be the ladies battle, promises to be a real fight, as the girls' teams are about equal in strength, with the Hempstead county quintet probably having a slight edge over their opponents in size and experience.

As for the second game, the Riders should win over the Nevada county club without much trouble. But the Emmet boys will be in the game from the first whistle until the last one, fighting as they have always done in the past. With the breaks in their favor, they may upset the "dope bucket" and beat Patmos.

Income Tax In a Nutshell

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 15, 1934.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions on forms 1040A and 1040.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemption and credits. Eight per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $8,000.

Income-Tax Don'ts.
Don't prepare your return without first studying the instructions on the form.

DON'T procrastinate. Early assembling of data permits a careful consideration of all tax problems.

DON'T destroy the memoranda from which your return was prepared.

DON'T omit explanation when such information is essential to an intelligent audit. Attach memoranda to your return.

No. 3 Who Must File Returns

Returns are required of every single person who for the year 1933 had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more, and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1933 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widowers, widows, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are classed as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husband and wife living together may make separate returns of the income of each, or their income may be included in a single joint return. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

Husband and wife may elect each year whether to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file and amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

REFUNDING BILL

this fund, or will be after the court dissolves the injunction. These expenses amounted to $36,000.

Added to these will be the highway audit commission's appropriation of about $20,000.

A fund of $250,000 also was set aside to pay the costs of refunding the $155,000,000 of bonds. This appropriation will care for expenses for several years.

After all these appropriations have been paid, there will be approximately $206,000 left in the treasury to start payment of interest under the refunding program. To this will be added current collections from motor vehicle fees and gasoline taxes, which will give the state an estimated $2,380,000 for bond purposes by the time the first payment becomes due.

After scoring 14 points to top all other cagers in the battle, Madison was disqualified as the third quarter got underway. Kennedy, a team mate also went out on personal fouls. Grinnell of Lewisville, was the third player to go out on personal fouls.

The victory Tuesday night was the fifth consecutive win for the Bobcats this season without a setback. The game was played at Lewisville.

Wednesday night at the high school gymnasium here the locals will play Guernsey. A second game is scheduled between Blevins and Patuxent.

Friday night the Bobcats go to Texarkana to meet the Razorbacks.

Armed deputies swarmed about the car and even stood atop the jail as the prisoner, handcuffed to Sgt. Frank Reynolds of the Chicago detective force, and other officers, climbed out.

Reports that gangster friends, who once liberated him from an Ohio jail after killing a sheriff, were on their way to attempt a delivery failed to materialize.

Mrs. Lillian Holley, sheriff, without a weapon on her, expressed confidence that she would be able to keep the prisoner safe until after his trial. Dillinger has been identified for the killing and two policemen have identified him as the man who fired the shots that killed an officer in East Chicago, Ind.

United States Attorney Wallace Townsend said Tuesday that a charge involving a CWA official has been filed with him, but said that he has not had time to investigate the affair and could make nothing public until after further investigation.

Floyd Sharp, state CWA comptroller, said that the identity of the Arkansas official who is the object of the charges has not been disclosed to the state officials. Investigations are being made in three counties, he said, but he did not know whether the charge filed with Mr. Townsend was a result of one of these inquiries or of an investigation made by the state office.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

Use of Canned Tomatoes
By SISTER MARY
NEA Service Staff Writer

The house-keeper who keeps canned tomatoes on hand never lacks variety for her table. Vitamins are supplied economically and abundantly.

In many instances, canned tomatoes prove as satisfactory as fresh ones. Numerous dishes, such as soups, stews and casseroles, lose none of their interest and savoriness when made with the canned product.

Some cooks strain tomatoes before reheating the table because enough water cooks out to form sufficient juice to suit their taste. One of the best ways to utilize this juice is to make a tomato jelly salad. Any other cornmeal muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Vegetable soup, toast sticks, salmon and lettuce open sandwiches, canned peaches, milk, tea.
Dinner: Codfish, spaghetti and tomatoes, stuffed beet salad, steamed dried apricot pudding, milk, coffee.

vegetables left from the meal can be added to the juice and all simmered together with a few slices of onion, whole cloves, parsley and celery leaves. Add salt and sugar as necessary and strain and measure the seasoned juice. A little lemon juice or vinegar may be needed to give "point" to the salad by making the jelly pleasantly tart. Use one and one-half tablespoons granulated gelatine to two cups of tomato juice in place of the customary 1 tablespoon gelatine to 1 pint of liquid. Pour the jelly into molds and let stand several hours to chill and become firm. Unmold and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Kinds of Molds to Use
Individual molds always are attractive, but if you don't happen to have any try using baking powder cans. Mold the jelly in pound or half pound cans, unmold and cut in slices for serving. These slices of jelly can be served alone on a bed of lettuce or used in such combinations as a slice of canned pineapple between two slices of tomato jelly; mixtures of cream cheese, chopped nuts and olives between slices of the jelly or a combination of chopped celery, green peppers and Chinese cabbage topped a slice of the jelly.

A good way to use the tomatoes from which the juice was strained is in scalloped tomatoes. A combination of tomatoes and onions or tomatoes and canned corn is put into a buttered baking dish in alternating layers with toast cubes or cracker crumbs, making the first and last layers of crumbs. This is baked twenty-five or thirty minutes in a hot oven and served from the baking dish.

Codfish, spaghetti and tomatoes is an excellent combination and furnishes a one-piece dish for luncheon or supper at small expense.

Don't forget that hearty dish known as Spanish Rice which combines rice, tomatoes and chopped meat in such a savory fashion.

The codfish, spaghetti and tomato combination may be new to you. The recipe follows.

Codfish, Spaghetti and Tomatoes
One-fourth pound salt codfish, 1 cup spaghetti broken in small pieces, 1 pint canned tomatoes, 2 bay leaves, 1 small onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon oil, 2 tablespoons chopped olives.
Soak the codfish in lukewarm water for two hours or longer. Drain and cut in small dice. Cook spaghetti in boiling salt water until tender. Drain. Simmer codfish and tomatoes with bay leaves for twenty minutes.
